

Comments reference rulemaking on requiring the taping of all radio and television programming between 6 am and 10 pm. FCC commissioners are again trying to overregulate an already overregulated industry without considering the cost in equipment and manpower for the smaller broadcast entities. Those broadcast stations with no history of "indecent" violations are being "punished" for the actions of a few. Why not place the burden of proof on those violators rather than place an undue burden on the greater majority of responsible broadcasters?
